Timber / Enviro venetian blinds bring warmth and style to your living environment, having fantastic insulation qualities whilst giving character to any room. Available in a range of painted and stained finishes to suit your interior decor. ☰

TIMBER

Timber is ideal for blinds and shutters, being neither too heavy nor too light, but still offering a reasonable amount of hardness, thus giving a good resistance to knocks and bumps. Stained or painted Timber slats are generally not susceptible to colour change to any great degree. The timber we use is grown as a plantation timber, managed for sustainability, ensuring an environmentally friendly and ongoing supply.

Available in 50mm and 60mm slat width, stained or painted finish with matching fascia and componentry.

ENVIROWOOD

A composite blind, environmentally friendly and ideal for damp or wet areas in your house, won't warp twist or bow like other natural timbers and comes in three fashionable colours to suit your décor. Utilises all the same componentry as the timber venetian and available in 50mm and 63mm slats.

Venluree's Roman Blind range utilizes curtain fabrics and lining from our extensive curtain range. A Roman Blind offers a clean tidy look and can be positioned either inside or outside the window frame/opening allowing the blind to be raised above the window thus not restricting the view.

Roman Blinds can be lined the same way as a curtain is lined, to give complete block out or using polyester cotton lining that is translucent but provides the base curtain fabric protection from the sun.

A Roman blind is the perfect solution where you do not have any stack room for a curtain but still desire a curtain design or wish to match existing curtains. ☰

CORD OPERATED

This is the traditional method utilising a wooden batten (40mm x 20mm) at the top of the blind with the fabric attached (normally Staped) with metal eyes screwed into the headrail so cords can be threaded through it.

CHAIN OPERATED

A more recent innovation utilising an aluminium headrail, internal tilt rod and cord spooling cones with a chain drive mechanism at the end of the headrail. Fabric is secured to headrail using Velcro. Velcro taped to aluminium headrail and corresponding Velcro sewn into the top of the fabric.

Cellular Blinds have earned the highest energy-efficiency ratings in the industry due to their air-trapping construction. They have an R value of between 3 and 4.8 depending on the material chosen. To compare a single pane glass window has an R Value of 1.75.

WHAT IS "R" VALUE?

At the technical level, R-value is a measure of resistance to heat flow through a given thickness of material. In theory, the higher the R-value, the greater that resistance. In general, a double glazed window will provide an R-value of around 3.75. Therefore, a Cellular Blind can provide a similar result to double glazing.
